

JAPAN FINDS NEW METHOD TO MAKE IRON

Tokyo, Japan, Nov. 25.—A method whereby iron may be smelted from volcanic iron waste, heretofore regarded as wholly refractory, has been reported by scientists working for the war department. While the discovery cannot be developed as yet, it is said that the cost of the iron so obtained being too high to compete with iron smelted from ore, the value of the process to Japan from a military standpoint is said to be great, inasmuch as it places this country in an independent position so far as its supply of iron for military and naval use is concerned. Japan, like every other volcanic country, is rich in deposits of iron wastes.

JAP WAR PERIL SEEN IN U.S. CONCESSION

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 25.—The eastern Shariha concession secured by Washington D. Vanderlin for a group of Los Angeles capitalists has been reported by scientific experts working for the war department. While the discovery cannot be developed as yet, it is said that the cost of the iron so obtained being too high to compete with iron smelted from ore, the value of the process to Japan from a military standpoint is said to be great, inasmuch as it places this country in an independent position so far as its supply of iron for military and naval use is concerned. Japan, like every other volcanic country, is rich in deposits of iron wastes.

Vanderlin's reasons were that the concession could not be validated; that any attempt to validate it and proceed to its use inevitably would lead to war with Japan, and that the representative of the Soviet government who offered it made the condition that the widest possible publicity be given to the enterprise—a publicity which in its final effect would help swing American sentiment to the Soviet cause, according to his belief.

BEAUTY AND HOUSEWORK

GREAT many women think that housework destroys beauty. Therefore, they make no effort to keep themselves beautiful, since it is necessary to do the housework. It is not so. The housework that destroys beauty is the housework that is done in a haphazard way.

For instance, sweeping floors is intended for developing the arms and shoulders and it strengthens certain muscles of the back. It will also help to fill the little hollows at the base of the throat and across the chest. If it is done properly, of course, it will be a good exercise for your chest and back. If you are going to sweep a lot of dust to breathe into the lungs, then your task will be anything but a beauty exercise. The most sensible and efficient way to sweep is to stand erect and to take short quick strokes. If you have a tendency to stoop over, buy only brooms with very long handles.

Dusting is also an excellent exercise and develops various sets of muscles all over the body. Since it causes changes in position from stooping to reaching, dust making is good for the arms, back and waist, and will really help to keep off the thick rolls of flesh around the lowest ribs. To be beneficial, all housework should be done lightly, and occasionally you should stand erect and draw in a deep breath of fresh air. In fact, the change of position also rests the body.

Fifty-five.—The young man should certainly take treatment to prevent the growth of the bald spot on his head. If the hair roots are not dead, new hair can be grown. If they are dead, of course nothing can be done; but since he is a young man, it is not likely that the roots are dead. If you will send me a letter with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will send you the formula for an excellent hair tonic. The man should also massage the scalp to keep his scalp moist and he should never wear stiff hats. In fact, the more he goes without hats, the better for his hair.

Tar water would be very good for your hair. It is prepared by putting one or two tablespoons of pure pine tar in a pint of water, then shaking it up and using the water whenever you wash the hair.

Mag.—If you keep your digestion in first class condition you will not be troubled with the whiteheads. Be sure, however, that there is no constipation. Your physician will give you a tonic for the liver.

WASHINGTON STATE TO HAVE FIRST 'HARDING' POSTOFFICE

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 25.—The first postoffice in the United States named after president-elect Harding may be located in this county. The residents of a small community on the Milwaukee railway have named their local postoffice "Harding" and have requested the postal authorities to establish an official postoffice under that name.

At present, according to the postal guide, there are postoffices under the name of Harding in Massachusetts, West Virginia and South Dakota, but it is believed that none was named for senator Harding.
